

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

REPORT

RELATING TO

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives .

In 1866, the legislature enacted a law requiring the secretary of state annually to "make and publish a general abstract and report" of the returns of births, marriages, and deaths made to his office by city and town clerks. No such abstract and report has ever been made. The returns have been so incomplete—some towns sending none, and those that did send only sending partial ones—that former secretaries have not felt that they would be justified in incurring the expense of making and publishing an abstract, which, on account of its incompleteness, would be of no value whatever.

Believing in the great importance of such a report, if it could be made full and accurate, I have made special efforts by circulars to physicians, clergymen, town clerks, and selectmen, and in other ways, to induce them to make such records and returns as they are by law required to make. My efforts, I regret to say, have not been crowned with complete success, but there has been a marked improvement in the number and accuracy of the returns.

Table I. exhibits, in connection with the population according to the United States census for 1880, the number of births, marriages, and deaths registered in and returned from the several towns and cities in New Hampshire, for the year ended March 30, 1880.

From the following towns no returns have been received for that year : In Rockingham county, Danville ; in Strafford county, Dover, Lee, Middleton, and Milton ; in Carroll county, Albany, Chatham, Freedom, Jackson, and Tamworth ; in Hillsborough county, Litchfield, and Windsor ; in Cheshire county, Hinsdale, and Winchester ; in Grafton county, Benton, Haverhill, Lincoln, Livermore, and Waterville ; in Coos county, Berlin, Dalton, Randolph, and Shelburne.

The following towns made returns of marriages only : Bartlett, Charlestown, Durham, Errol, Lempster, Pittsburg, and Stratford.

For the purpose of furnishing a standard of comparison by which to test the value of the statistics given in Table 1, I give below the ratio of births, marriages, and deaths to one thousand of population, taken from the Massachusetts registration report for 1879.

Births, . . . . .	23.46	to 1,000 of population.
Marriages (couples), . . . . .	8.04	" "
Deaths, . . . . .	18.52	" "

Below will also be found a table exhibiting the average annual rates, per one thousand of population, of births, marriages, and deaths, in nine nations of Europe, taken from the thirty-seventh annual report of the Registrar-General of Great Britain for 1876.

Italy.....	37.4	36.3	34.9	15.4	15.8	15.2	30.2	30.0	30.3

Taking the Massachusetts rates as a standard, we should have had registered and returned in this State for the year covered by this report, 8,570 births, instead of 4,249, the number returned, and 6,627 deaths, instead of 3,829, the number returned. If this is a correct standard of comparison, it thus appears that less than one-half the number of births and a little more than one-half the number of deaths that actually took place in this State for the year ended March 31, 1880, were registered. But there is reason to believe that more births and deaths were registered in that than in any previous year.

The number of marriages that should have been solemnized, according to the Massachusetts ratio, is 2,706 ; the number actually registered and returned is 2,629, a difference of only 77. If any deduction can properly be made from these figures, it is, that clergymen take more pains to record and report marriages than do physicians to record and report births and deaths.

The practical question which it is the object of this report to submit to the consideration of the legislature is, how to supply the statistics that selectmen and physicians fail to return to city and town clerks. Selectmen fail to ascertain the statistics of births and deaths when they take the inventory in April annually ; physicians neglect to report to selectmen the births and deaths of which they have knowledge professionally ; and, if town clerks make returns to the secretary of state, they must necessarily be very incomplete, as their reports are made up of statistics furnished them by selectmen and physicians.

The principal defect in the law is its omission to provide for supplying these deficiencies. City and town clerks should be authorized to collect all vital statistics not reported to them by those who are by law required to do so. In most of the towns in this State an event like a birth, marriage, or death soon becomes generally known, and the town clerk, if paid for his pains, would have some inducement to ascertain the necessary facts and make a record of them. In those States that are able to publish registration reports of any value, officers specially designated for that purpose are induced to hunt up these statistics by the offer of a liberal fee for such services. Some such provision in our law would, I am confident, after a very few trials, secure full and accurate returns from all the towns and cities in the State ; and, with that end in view, I would respectfully recommend that the clerk of each city and town, for performing the duties required of him by section 5 of chapter 181 of the General Laws be paid by the city or town as follows : for receiving, recording, and returning the facts relating to each marriage, fifteen cents ; each birth and each death, twenty-five cents ; and for obtaining, recording, and returning the facts relating to each birth, marriage, and death which have not been reported to him by selectmen, clergymen, and physicians, fifty cents ; provided, that any city may limit the aggregate compensation of its clerk. This is substantially the law of Massachusetts, and is the result of the observation and experience of men who have given to the subject of social and vital statistics, and the best methods of collecting and preserving them, their best thought, stimulated by an intelligent appreciation of their value and a love for the work.

If the legislature in its wisdom shall not see fit to amend the law as suggested, or in some better way, I recommend that that provision of the law requiring city and town clerks to make returns to the secretary of state, and that requiring the secretary to make a report annually, be repealed.

Respectfully submitted.

A. B. THOMPSON,
Secretary of State.
